

The Eagles “Long Road Out of Eden Tour” Comes to Memphis’ FedEx Forum

The Eagles chronicled America in the high-flying Seventies, a time of rapidly changing social mores leading up to what they called “life in the fast lane.” Between the lines, their favorite subject matter was the pursuit and unraveling of the American dream. They began as wide-eyed country-rockers on the fertile Los Angeles music scene and evolved into purveyors of grandiose, dark-themed albums about excess and seduction. The Eagles were defined and bounded by the Seventies, forming in 1971 and parting ways in 1980. They were born again in 1994 as public demand for their music and messages persuaded them to reunite.

Following the success of their number one album, Long Road Out of Eden, the Eagles will perform live at FedEx Forum on Sunday, November 16. The band - Glenn Frey, Don Henley, Joe Walsh and Timothy B. Schmit will be performing current hits from Long Road Out of Eden including “How Long” and “Busy Being Fabulous” as well as their classic songs.

The American Express presale begins Monday, September 22 at 10 a.m. through Sunday, September 28 at 10 p.m., and will only be available to Centurion, Platinum, Gold and Blue clients. Please visit americanexpress.com for more information.

Sunday, November 16, The Eagles will be doing one show only at 8pm. Tickets are $45-$150 and go on sale Monday, September 29 at 10am. The Eagles have teamed up with iloveallaccess.com to offer the ultimate fan experience for the upcoming Memphis concert featuring a variety of VIP ticket packages. For more details go to www.iloveallaccess.com.